D ominique

is an international beauty of Jamaican, German, Scottish, and Indian ethnicity. The combination of her breathtaking beauty and her engaging personality make her someone you want to learn more about.

Her contagious smile, exotic eyes and captivating charm all contribute to her global appeal and an unparalleled connection with fans all over the world.

Dominique always wanted to be on stage and in the spotlight. As a child, Dominique and her younger brothers shot home videos of her striking poses on a makeshift runway in the family living room. To say that was foreshadowing of what was to come would be an understatement! Dominique's positive attitude and approach to life and the pursuit of making her dreams a reality helped this Columbus, Ohio native secure a place in modeling and television history; earning a spot on Cycle 10 of America's Next Top Model (ANTM), followed by Modelville and then a return to Top Model during Cycle 17, America's Next Top Model – The All-Star Season.

Now a fan favorite, Dominique enjoys spending time with her followers and talking about her experiences as a model and TV personality. She enjoys fielding the best of questions that come from teenage girls who know the Top Model episodes by heart. It's no surprise that the popular questions seem to be the same from city to city. Questions such as, "How do I become a model," and "How do I get on the show," are those most often asked. A firm believer in not giving up on your dreams, Dominique shares with her fans that she tried out for America's Next Top Model five times before making it on to the show. After her disappointment when not selected for Cycle 9, she moved to Los Angeles to pursue dream of becoming a model. Just weeks after she relocated to Los Angeles, Dominique received the call she had been waiting for – she had been selected for Cycle 10 of America's Next Top Model.

ANTM proved to be a good learning experience. "Although we had our cat fights, I valued my experience with each model," admits Dominique. As most viewers know, the editing of the show doesn't reveal the full context of the conversations and conflicts that take place. Despite this, Dominique felt that she left each interaction with her co-stars and with the panel of judges more poised and prepared. And the exposure she has received from the show? Priceless. "Modeling it is not about being perfect," she adds. "It is about creating the illusion of looking perfect in front of the camera to get that one shot."

Dominique has been a favorite on the ANTM franchise and has finished fourth in both of the show's cycles she has appeared on. In addition to being on ANTM, Dominique appeared on and was the winner of yet another competition based show created by Tyra Banks, called Modelville. As a result, she spent 2009 as the spokesperson for the successful beauty line Carol's Daughter. Additionally, she appeared in national magazines including Seventeen and Essence and at New York's Fashion Week as well as appearances on the hit HBO series Entourage and The Tyra Banks Show.

With the success of America's Next Top Model now behind her, Dominique has embarked on a promising music career. Paying homage to the successful ANTM franchise, her current single On Top of the World pokes fun at her stint on hit series with an underlying message to young girls to love the skin you're in, be confident and live your life to the fullest.

Aside from the glamour of her television and music career Dominique's commitment to community enrichment and charitable support is never ending. Her advice to young aspiring models and other professionals: "Always be grounded, remain confident and keep your integrity."
